Course Description

As your classroom becomes more diverse, do you wish you had strategies to increase equity, inclusion, and belonging? Social-emotional learning (SEL) is a process for creating an environment where everyone feels welcome. With DEIB at the forefront, educators can use methods for teaching social-emotional skills that include all students and give them a voice. This online course provides the perfect approach to integrating SEL and DEIB to deal with a variety of societal issues. Teachers will be provided with thorough background information on SEL and DEIB as well as numerous activities that support DEIB while teaching each of the five core competencies of SEL. Teachers will explore Universal Design for Learning and culturally responsive teaching and will learn how these frameworks align with both SEL and DEIB. From acknowledging diversity to designing student-centered classrooms, teachers will feel empowered to lift up students' voices and allow them to make authentic choices about their learning. Finally, teachers will learn strategies to combat challenges of implementing SEL. By the end of this course, teachers will feel more confident and successful in their quest to embed the teaching of social-emotional skills to promote equity and excellence for all students.

Design three social-emotional lesson plans that are applicable to the PreK-5 level. The lesson plans must address three separate SEL competencies, and they must also incorporate the principles of DEIB. Each lesson needs to include a purpose, the grade level(s) to which the lesson best applies, the specific social-emotional core competency being addressed, a description of how it supports DEIB, a materials list (if necessary), and a minimum of six detailed steps to execute the procedure. If necessary, the teacher must also include links to any materials as well as book titles and author information. Follow the example included in Assignment 4. To obtain full credit, be sure to follow all the parameters set forth in Assignment 4.

The culminating practicum is a three-step process. (1) In the first assignment, you were asked what goals you had and what you hoped to learn from the course. Think back to your original goals for this course. Write a minimum two-paragraph reflection specifically describing how what you learned can be used to help you reach those goal(s). (2) Next, write a minimum three-paragraph plan that specifically describes the ways in which you intend to implement a particular strategy you learned in this course into your own teaching situation. (3) Last, write a minimum two-paragraph reflection describing a student you have or have had in the past. Then, discuss how the strategies you learned in this course will specifically benefit that student as you put your plan into action.
